

Sportradar Awarded Sports Betting Provider Licenses in Connecticut and West Virginia

November 4, 2021

Leading sports data provider awarded Connecticut Online Gaming Service Provider License and extension of West Virginia Sports Wagering Supplier License

NEW YORK, Nov. 04, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Sportradar Group AG (NASDAQ: SRAD) ("Sportradar" or "the Company"), the leading global sports technology company creating immersive experiences for sports fans and bettors, via its US betting subsidiary, Sportradar Solutions LLC, today announced that it has received an Online Gaming Service Provider license in Connecticut and renewed its Sports Wagering Supplier license in West Virginia.

As a holder of 20 licenses at the state and tribal levels in the US, Sportradar provides its data and services to a wide range of clients operating within these jurisdictions, as well as ensures transparency, integrity and the most accurate sports data to state-run sports betting and gaming agencies.

Arne Rees, Sportradar US CEO said: "Sportradar is committed to providing our clients the highest quality sports data and services. As sports betting legalization accelerates in the US, strong and transparent data will help govern the growing industry expansion in a sustainable and ethical manner. These licenses underscore Sportradar's commitment to the US market, our leadership in integrity and the value of our products and services."

Both Connecticut and West Virginia have passed legislation allowing bettors to place wagers in retail locations and through online sportsbooks. West Virginia officially launched sports betting in August of 2018. Connecticut is one of the most recent states to approve sports betting and officially launched retail and online betting in October 2021.
